K-01 | CALIFORNIA DOJ — REDLANDS UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT

Independent source summary | Prepared November 15, 2026 | 1134NEWS evidence research

Purpose: Establish the publicly documented scope and outcome of the California Department of Justice investigation of Redlands Unified School District (RUSD). This is a research summary, not an official DOJ-issued exhibit or a finding against Commissioner Natalie Keller.

Verified public-record chronology

October 2022: The DOJ says its investigation was expanded to examine RUSD policies and practices for preventing and responding to student sexual assault, abuse, and harassment.

May 29, 2024: Attorney General Rob Bonta announced a proposed stipulated judgment after DOJ identified systemic deficiencies in RUSD responses to complaints, including Title IX, CANRA, and California Education Code issues.

June 10, 2024: The court entered the stipulated judgment in Los Angeles County Superior Court, case 24STCV13334, according to the notice of entry dated June 11, 2024.

What the judgment requires

Among other measures, the judgment requires a compliance official, a centralized system for tracking reports and complaints, reporting of complaints and responses to DOJ, staff and student training, and oversight for a minimum five-year period.

Important legal distinction: The stipulated judgment expressly states it was entered without trial or adjudication of fact or law and without the district admitting liability. The DOJ press release describes its investigative findings; the judgment establishes enforceable prospective obligations.

Relevance to the Keller complaint

These sources substantiate the existence, timing, and district-wide scope of the DOJ investigation. They do not establish that a particular child was included in the investigation, that Commissioner Keller received notice of it, or that any Keller ruling violated the judgment. Those propositions require independent child-specific and court-specific records.

Evidence still needed

To connect this material to the Keller complaint: a contemporaneous record showing what DOJ-related information was filed or presented to the family court; a dated record of Keller receiving it; and any relevant order or transcript passage addressing that information.

Editorial note: Do not describe the DOJ judgment as a finding of misconduct by Keller, or publish identifying school records about a minor without careful review and redaction.
